

Digital Media

Master of Arts (MA)

The Graduate Program in Digital Media provides highly qualified students with the opportunity to do specialised hybrid research work in a program that uniquely combines computational science and artistic practices. Students will explore, develop and critically engage with broad range of digitally supported media, focusing on either the artistic or technological aspects of these studies.

Details of Degree

- Major Research Project (5 terms)
Part-time available

Program Highlights

- York's Digital Media Graduate Program is one of the only joint programs in Canada housed in Computational Arts (School of the Arts, Media, Performance & Design) and Electrical Engineering and Computer Science (Lassonde School of Engineering).
- Students will have access to Sensorium: The Centre for Digital Arts and Technology. Sensorium bridges disciplines and diverse communities of scholars, artists, and scientists exploring networked connections between people, sentient environments, and ecologies of place.
