
Steve Orsini steps down from SPPA Advisory Committee and takes on new role as President and CEO of the Council of Ontario Universities

We take this opportunity to thank Mr. Orsini for his years of service as a valuable member of our School's Advisory Committee, and for his enthusiastic mentorship of students and generations of public servants.

Mr. Orsini served as Secretary of the Cabinet, Head of the Ontario Public Service (OPS), and Clerk of the Executive Council from 2014 to 2019. In this role he reported to the Premier of Ontario and was responsible for more than 60,000 employees in the OPS. As Secretary, he championed the development of the OPS of the Future Action Plan, its Inclusion and Diversity Blueprint, and the government's first Anti-Racism Action Plan.

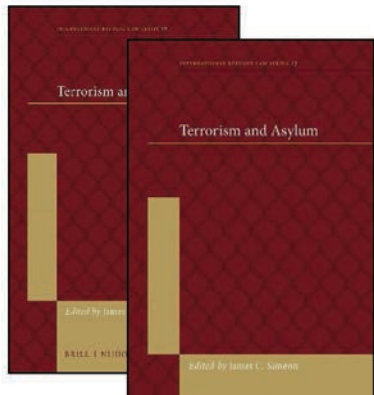

We wish Mr. Orsini success in his new role as he leverages over 30 years of public service experience and collaborative leadership for the betterment of Ontario's universities, student outcomes and advancing communities.

McLAUGHLIN COLLEGE

As part of our popular Lunch Talk Series McLaughlin College proudly presents:

You are invited to an online official book launch of *Terrorism and Asylum

Edited by James C. Simeon

"Terrorism and Asylum, edited by James C. Simeon, explores terrorism and asylum in all its interrelated and variable aspects, and permutations. The critical role terrorism plays as a driver in forced displacement, within the context of protracted armed conflict and extreme political violence, is analyzed. Exclusion from refugee protection for the alleged commission of terrorist activities is thoroughly interrogated. Populist politicians' blatant use of the "fear of terrorism" to further their public policy security agenda and to limit access to refugee protection is scrutinized. The principal issues and concerns regarding terrorism and asylum and how these might be addressed, in the public interest while, at the same time, protecting and advancing the human rights and dignity of everyone are offered" —

Government of Canada: Advanced Policy Analyst Program Recruitment

APAP, formerly known as the Accelerated Economist Training Program, is a development program that offers an unparalleled opportunity to join the federal public service. Participants complete four challenging six-month placements across the three central agencies—the Privy Council Office, the Department of Finance, and the Treasury Board Secretariat—and one other department.

Eligible applicants are Master's-level graduates who exhibit leadership and academic excellence, good judgment, and analytical abilities. The APAP has the following course requirements, which may be completed at the undergraduate or graduate level:

- At least one half-year course in microeconomics AND at least one half-year course in macroeconomics (or an equivalent full-year course with both microeconomics and macroeconomics);
- At least one half-year course in microeconomics AND at least one half-year course in macroeconomics (or an equivalent full-year course with both microeconomics and macroeconomics);
- At least two additional half-year OR one full-year course in economics; and
- At least one additional half-year course in statistics or quantitative analysis or research methods.

If you are interested in attending their Information Session, please fill in the MachForm link here. Once we have the final date/time, we will email all of you who have expressed interest in attending with the Zoom link.

We hope some of you find this opportunity interesting and sign up to attend as the Federal government recruiters will be running the information session and can address all your questions there.
