RESEARCH BACKGROUND

- The barriers and challenges facing permanent residents are well documented and reasonably well understood
- What about:
 - Growing number of permanent residents who live here on a temporary basis before changing status
 - The capacities that help some migrants overcome challenges, i.e., resilience
 - The impacts of migrant communities and social institutions other than publicly provided services
 - The roles of employers and the general public in fostering capacities to overcome challenges

RESILIENCE

The capacity to prepare for disruptions, recover from shocks and stresses, and adapt and grow from a disruptive experience.

- Pilot institutional interventions to enhance resilience

- CITY NETWORKS
 - York Region
 - City of Toronto
 - Ottawa
 - Gatineau
 - Montreal

1st Project Goal

- Examine migrant resilience
- Four assumptions about migrant resilience:
 - cannot be measured directly.
 - emerges over time.
 - is relational.
 - is multifaceted:
 - Economic self-sufficiency
 - Civic engagement
 - Identification with the society

Examining Resilience: Issues

- Longitudinal or cross-sectional or both?
- Individual, household or community?
- Which measures in each aspect of daily life?
 - Economic self-sufficiency
 - Civic engagement
 - Identification and sense of belonging
- Quantitative/ qualitative or both?
- Secondary and primary data?
- What can we learn from other projects, e.g. integration indices?

2nd Project Goal

- Examine how social institutions influence migrant resilience
 - Explicitly urban focus
 - Diverse urban contexts
 - Variety of institutions:
 - Formal vs. informal
 - Public sector, NGO, private sector, religious, community-based
 - Interactions among institutions
 - Multiple paths of influence

Evaluating the Impacts of Institutions: Issues

1. Community mapping

- Which social institutions?
- What characteristics of institutions and their activities?
- How to characterize institutional interrelations and interactions, the institutional ecosystem?

2. Case Studies

- What time period?
- Subjective and/ or objective measures?
- How do we trace number, nature, and quality of contacts with institutions?
 - Recall
 - Longitudinal

3rd Project Goal

- Pilot institutional strategies to enhance migrant resilience
 - Only in selected urban areas in Quebec and Ontario
- Promote the adoption of these strategies

Research Underway

- Review of recent literature about resilience and migration
- Upcoming studies of:
 - Resilience in policy discourses
 - Environmental scans of services and other amenities available to migrants
 - Survey of permanent residents about settlement experiences modelled on Making Ontario Home
