

Global Labour Research Centre | GLRC

Newsletter. September 2024.

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

Dear GLRC Community,

With the Fall/Winter 2024-25 term upon us, I would like to extend a warm welcome to all of you new and returning to the Centre. I am honoured to serve as the Interim Director of the Global Labour Research Centre (GLRC) during Director Adrian Smith's sabbatical.

Carlo Fanelli, GLRC Interim Director

> Welcome

I would like to formally extend a warm welcome to Carmen Ponce as new Coordinator of the GLRC. Carmen has a PhD in Economics from the Pontifical Catholic University of Peru. Her dissertation focused on the role of increasing climate variability on household livelihood diversification in the Peruvian Andes. Her other areas of interest include climate change, poverty and inequality, rural development and child work. Carmen brings a wealth of experience, and we are thrilled to have her join us in her new role.

We are also happy to welcome Assistant Professors Asmita Bhutani (Work & Labour Studies) and Ling Jiang (School of Information Technology) to the Executive Committee at the GLRC. Professor Bhutani completed a PhD at the University of Toronto. Her current research examines the role of gender, race and class in the automation industry and data production platforms. Professor Jiang received her PhD from City University of Hong Kong. Her research interests focus on user behaviors in online labor markets and user-generated content platforms. We are also pleased to welcome Associate Professor Macarena Bonhomme from the Faculty of Social Sciences and Humanities, Universidad Autónoma de Chile, who will be visiting the GLRC and the Sociology Department at LA&PS during the month of September. Please join me in welcoming them all to the GLRC community.

> New Initiatives

It has been a busy summer at the GLRC. We are slowly rolling out our revised website and would encourage all of you to share your thoughts and comments as it undergoes changes. Let us know what you like, would like to see more of, and how it can be improved. I am also pleased to announce our inaugural Perspectives, and GLRC Snapshots Series. Perspectives are concise opinion pieces meant to spark public dialogue and encourage new ways of thinking on a range of work and labour related issues. GLRC Snapshots are plain-language reports and summaries that consider “what the research found” and “how it can be used” to identify and communicate real-world impacts from academic research to the wider labour and stakeholder communities. We hope you will join us in sharing the word about these new initiatives and consider submitting something yourselves.

Our GLRC Speaker Series is also in full swing, with a number of in-person, virtual and hybrid events scheduled. Kicking the series off on Thursday September 26th from 2:30-4:30pm is the “Past, Present and Future of Im/Migrant Labour in Canada.” We hope you will join us. Work is also underway on our annual Graduate Student Symposium, which will take place on February 20-21, 2025 in-person and online. The Symposium will feature the GLRC’s annual John Eleen Lecture, which will feature writer and activist Arun Kundnani whose presentation is titled, What is Antiracism? And Why it Means Anticapitalism.

> Get Involved

There are many ways to get involved with the activities at the GLRC. One way is as a faculty, student, labour or community GLRC Associate. It takes just a few minutes to complete the member application form. If you are preparing applications for grants or are interested in associating your current projects with the GLRC, please get in touch to explore opportunities for collaboration. As always, we welcome and encourage your feedback for all things GLRC. If you have any suggestions, tips, or topics you would like to explore, please do not hesitate to reach out to us. Wishing you all a restful and solidaristic Labour Day from the GLRC!

GLRC SPOTLIGHT

Congratulations to GLRC Faculty Associate and Executive Committee member, Leah Vosko, who was honoured by York University as Distinguished Research Professor!

A Professor and Canada Research Chair (Tier 1) in the Political Economy of Gender and Work, Leah Vosko has become a leader in the study of gender and politics, citizenship, migration and labour markets. Her research has a frequent focus on part-time, seasonal and contract workers, and the question, “What can be done to mitigate labour market insecurity?” An author and editor of numerous scholarly books, volumes and articles, her work has been driven by the aim of protecting precarious workers by shaping better policies and understanding around the labour market. GLRC RESEARCH AND PUBLICATIONS

The GLRC presents Laborem Ex Machina, a podcast series with a digital companion developed by our associate Dr. Gilberto Fernandes.

This 8-episode series explores the fascinating technological, business, labour, military, cultural, gender, racial, children, youth, and environmental history of modern construction machines and their operating engineers in Canada in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Its digital companion includes photos, artwork, videos, interactive maps, infographics, historical records, and other illustrations meant to be browsed through while listening. This project was sponsored by the International Union of Operating Engineers' Local 793 in partnership with the Global Labour Research Centre and Department of History at York University.

New GLRC Library

The GLRC is in the process of creating a library with publications that were donated by members of our community throughout the years. This was possible thanks to Cory Di Lena, a recent York University graduate, diligent efforts. The library, located in the GLRC Lounge (N816 Ross Building), will be available for use in September 2024.
